

New Hampshire Correctional Facility for Women Construction Update for December 15, 2017.

We have completed construction week #91 of the new NH Correctional Facility for Women in Concord. Pictured below is one of the four classrooms in the new facility. Three classrooms are for CTEC and multiuse in design, functioning as a general classroom or a lab for science, technology, engineering and math type programs. There is one classroom built for Industries and vocational training that is adjacent to the large industries warehouse area which will be the primary canteen sorting and distribution center. Carpeting and tile is nearly complete in all areas. Ceilings are mostly finished and the cleaning crews are working just ahead of the furniture assembly crews. All large correctional facility of this type requires multiple permits and approvals the Fire Marshall, Public Health Inspectors, ADA Compliance Inspectors, Mechanical Plumbing and Electrical Inspectors along with Commissioning Agents. That is the phase we are in now and it can be time consuming.

Staff from Goffstown will begin to occupy the facility on December 21, 2017. Training of all Security and BMS systems for staff will commence at that time or shortly thereafter. The construction of the new facility continues to be on time and within budget.
